

A Visit to the South Hero Recreational Trail

I will drive to the South Hero Recreational Trail. We will park in the parking lot. There is no fee to park there.

The parking lot is next to a school. I might see children, teachers or families at the school.

If I need the toilet, I can use the porta-potty.

A porta-potty is just like my toilet at home, but I clean my hands with a wet-wipe afterwards.

The beginning of the trail is behind the cars. It is called a trailhead. I walk across the grass to the trailhead.

I am starting my hike at the trailhead!

A Visit to the South Hero Recreational Trail, page 2

I'm off on my hike!

My shoes make thumping, echoing sounds on the wooden boardwalk.

I follow the twists and turns of the trail.

I stay on the trail. Staying on the trail keeps me safe, and it keeps the plants and animals safe as well.

I see some playground equipment off the trail. Maybe I'll play on those later, but right now I'm hiking.

I see a fence, and I know not to go near that fence. That fence is keeping me safe, and keeping those plants safe!

A Visit to the South Hero Recreational Trail, page 3

I see a pond through the tall grass. I am not going in the pond.

I am following the trail to a big clearing. There's a bench here in case I am tired, and want to sit down.

Near this bench is a neat area with a small shelter and some stumps. I can climb on these stumps and go in the shelter.

There is an old weaving frame here. I can touch this if I want.

There is a smaller trail that goes around the pond. I hike on this trail as well.

The flowers are beautiful! I look at them, and I don't pick them, so that everyone can enjoy them as much as me.

A Visit to the South Hero Recreational Trail, page 4

I'm heading across this grass to the next part of the trail.

My shoes sound really soft as I walk on the grass.

There's a colorful shack on my hike! I am allowed to touch this, so I touch the drum on the floor, and put my hands against the handprints.

Now I'm back on the trail. I am still hiking!

Wow! There's a clearing full of things to climb on! I climb on them.

I am back on the trail!

A Visit to the South Hero Recreational Trail, page 5

This section is made of gravel. It makes a crunching sound when I walk on it.

Hey, I'm back in the clearing. I can see the bench from the first part of my hike! I know the end of the hike is near.

I am back on the boardwalk, heading to the parking lot.

I did it! I hiked the South Hero Recreational Trail!

The End